<https://www.minnpost.com/politics-policy/2017/12/century-later-minneapolis-failed-city-plan-still-resonates/>

00:41:32 Debbie Koller: A very special place

00:41:34 lucy: this grand entrance will lead to grand goodies to view. This bld and its object will knock you off your feet

00:41:56 Mark Kuno: Imposing, intimidating.

00:42:06 Tammy Ray: intimidating and cold

00:42:43 Debbie Koller: important place

00:42:45 Emily and Dan Shapiro: We are stepping out of the "ordinary" world into a "special" place.

00:42:49 Reid's iPhone: imposing, appealing to an idea of authority or objectivity

00:43:18 Rob's iPhone: We get a lot of visitors that say they've seen the building for years & had no idea what it was. They think it's a governmental building because they mimicked the Greek architecture like buildings in Washington DC

00:44:46 Kathryn Schwyzer: What about the lions?

00:48:59 Mark Kuno: street level

00:48:59 lucy: cleaner lines, clearly more "modern"

00:49:20 Kathryn Schwyzer: looks corporate

00:49:20 maryannwark: not clear there is art

00:50:04 Meg Ubel: Unless you look up!

00:51:22 maryannwark: also the desks to make sure you are "ok" to enter

00:58:03 maryannwark: You can see all the galleries.

00:58:20 Meg Ubel: higher ceilings

00:58:23 lucy: no natural light

00:58:51 Tammy Ray: more art, less architecture

01:01:32 Ginny Wheeler: when will we get our Jennifer Steinkamp back

01:02:39 Kathleen Steiger: stone used on the floors and ceiling from MN including fossils

01:02:57 Kara ZumBahlen: We do not have any firm date for its return. But everyone misses it!

01:03:20 Vicki Klaers: His choice of wood/ stain mimics the floor from the older section.

01:03:57 Meg Ubel: Use of wood looks more like Arts and Crafts

01:05:53 Debbie Koller: for the kids it is a gym space!

01:06:43 Vicki Klaers: Being circular feels embracing.

01:06:45 Rob's iPhone: If it's not a school day, people have no idea that it's even a museum, much less ours. It looks like an abandoned Nordstrom's.

01:13:51 Rob's iPhone: Right off the bat, anyone in a wheelchair has to make 2- 90° turns as soon as they enter the Graves wing

01:15:17 Debbie Koller: this was great. Thanks so much

01:15:21 Gail Wong: thank you Debbie!

01:15:29 Jennifer Orton: Thanks!

01:15:31 Tammy Ray: Thank you, Debbi

01:15:42 Margaret Zverinova: Thanks! Great presentation
