

00:13:30 jamesallen: why do we often call the Netherlands 'Holland'?

00:16:38 Jan: So the Dutch Republic is only the Northern part?

00:20:52 Debbi: I looked it up! Holland means "wood-land" in Old English and was used by English speakers to refer to the whole country, but actually refers to only 2 of the provinces of the Netherlands today.

00:31:40 Jeanette Colby: Is that in Mia's collection?

00:35:43 Scott Appelwick: Is there any symbolism in the stripes in their clothing?

00:38:20 jamesallen: If the dutch were doing landscapes in genre painting now, why were we so amazed when the French rebelled against the Academy a few hundred years later?

00:39:50 Emily Shapiro: perhaps the French rebellion was so important because of the influence of The Academy in Paris.

00:56:31 Emily Shapiro: light = enlightenment

01:04:08 Jeanette Colby: There are places where a woman would still be expected to "save the family honor" in this way.

01:04:24 Manju: I agree.

01:08:19 Emily Shapiro: A great opportunity to discuss empathy.

01:09:14 Jeanette Colby: Thanks Kara!